

PRIVACY POLICY

Last Updated: 17-09-2026

This Privacy Policy is a client-review template for the Global Bharat landing page. It is intended for a website that primarily collects standard lead-generation information such as name, business/company details, email address, phone number, and enquiry details.

1. About This Privacy Policy

Aviruddha Productivity (“Company”, “we”, “us”, or “our”) operates <https://www.aviruddha.com/> and is committed to protecting the privacy and security of personal information submitted through the website.

This Privacy Policy explains what information we collect, why we collect it, how we use and protect it, when it may be shared, and the choices and rights available to individuals whose personal data we process.

2. Information We Collect

Information You Provide

- Full name
- Email address
- Phone/mobile number
- Company or organization name
- Designation or business role, where provided
- Business requirements, enquiry details, or other information submitted through website forms
- Any other information you voluntarily provide to us.

Information Collected Automatically

- IP address or approximate location derived from IP address
- Browser type and version
- Device type and operating system
- Pages visited, interactions, referring source, and timestamps
- Cookies and similar technical identifiers, where enabled.

3. Purpose of Processing

We may process personal information to respond to enquiries and requests; communicate about products, services, demonstrations, or business opportunities; provide requested information; manage leads and customer relationships; improve the website and user experience; maintain security and prevent fraud or abuse; and comply with applicable legal obligations.

We will not use personal information for a purpose that is incompatible with the purpose communicated to the individual, except where permitted or required by applicable law.

4. Consent and How It Is Obtained

Where consent is the applicable legal basis for processing, we will request consent through an appropriate affirmative action, such as a checkbox or other clear consent mechanism on the relevant landing-page form.

The consent notice should identify the personal data being requested and the purpose for which it will be processed. Users should not be required to provide consent for processing that is unnecessary for the requested service.

Where marketing communications are sent on the basis of consent, users may withdraw that consent by using the unsubscribe mechanism in the communication or by contacting us at the privacy contact address below. Withdrawal of consent will not affect processing that was lawfully carried out before withdrawal, and may not affect processing permitted on another lawful basis.

5. Cookies and Similar Technologies

We may use cookies and similar technologies for essential website functionality, security, analytics, performance measurement, and, where applicable, marketing or communication purposes.

Users may manage cookies through their browser or any cookie-management mechanism provided on the website. Certain non-essential features may not function as intended if cookies are disabled.

6. Third-Party Service Providers

We may use third-party providers for hosting, website analytics, security and spam prevention, CRM or lead management, email communication, scheduling, forms, cloud infrastructure, and other website operations.

Examples may include services such as Google Analytics, Cloudflare Turnstile, Calendly, CRM platforms, cloud hosting providers, or other tools actually configured on the website. The final published policy should be updated to list material providers actually used by the client.

Third-party providers may process information according to their own privacy policies and contractual obligations.

7. Cross-Border Data Processing and Transfers

Depending on the technology providers and infrastructure used by the website, personal information may be processed, transferred, or stored on servers located outside India or outside the country in which the individual is located.

Where such processing or transfer occurs, the Company will take reasonable measures and apply safeguards required by applicable data-protection laws, contractual arrangements, and the requirements applicable to the relevant service providers.

The Company may be required to disclose or transfer information where necessary to comply with applicable law, lawful requests, legal proceedings, or regulatory requirements.

8. Data Sharing and Disclosure

We do not sell or rent personal information.

Personal information may be disclosed to service providers, contractors, professional advisers, affiliates, business partners, regulators, law-enforcement authorities, or other parties where reasonably necessary for the purposes described in this Privacy Policy or where required or permitted by applicable law.

Where appropriate, third-party processors will be expected to process information only for authorized purposes and to apply reasonable security measures.

9. Data Security

We use reasonable technical, organizational, and administrative safeguards designed to protect personal information against unauthorized access, alteration, disclosure, loss, destruction, or misuse.

No internet transmission or electronic storage method can be guaranteed to be completely secure. Users should therefore avoid submitting sensitive information through a general landing-page form unless the website expressly requests and supports such information through an appropriate secure process.

10. Sensitive Personal Information

The Global Bharat landing page is intended primarily for standard B2B/B2C lead generation and is not intended to collect health information, passwords, payment-card details, bank-account information, government identity numbers, or other highly sensitive information through ordinary enquiry forms.

Users should not submit such information through the landing-page form unless the Company expressly requests it through a designated and appropriate secure channel.

11. Data Retention

We retain personal information only for as long as reasonably necessary to fulfil the purposes for which it was collected, provide requested services, maintain business records, resolve disputes, enforce agreements, meet security requirements, or comply with applicable legal and regulatory obligations.

Retention periods may vary depending on the type of information and the purpose for which it is processed.

12. Your Rights and Choices

Subject to applicable law, individuals may have rights relating to their personal information, including requesting access to information held about them, requesting correction of inaccurate information, requesting deletion where applicable, withdrawing consent where consent is the basis of processing, and requesting information or assistance regarding the handling of their personal data.

Requests may be submitted using the contact details provided in the Grievance Officer / Privacy Contact section. The Company may need to verify the identity or authority of the requester before processing a request.

13. Grievance Officer / Privacy Contact

The Company has designated a contact for privacy-related questions and grievances.

Name: Ganesh Jamgoankar

Email: info@aviruddha.com

Individuals may contact the designated officer using the details above regarding privacy questions, requests, or grievances. The Company will handle such requests in accordance with applicable law and its applicable internal procedures.

14. Third-Party Links

The website may contain links to third-party websites, social-media profiles, partner websites, payment services, scheduling platforms, or other external services.

These external websites and services are operated independently and may have their own privacy policies, terms, and data practices. The Company is not responsible for the privacy practices, security, content, or policies of third-party websites that it does not control.

Users should review the privacy policy of an external website before submitting personal information to it.

15. Children's Privacy

The website is intended for business and general audiences and is not directed toward children.

We do not knowingly request or collect children's personal information through the ordinary landing-page lead form. If we become aware that personal information has been collected in circumstances where applicable law requires parental or guardian consent, we will take appropriate steps as required by law.

16. Changes to This Privacy Policy

We may update this Privacy Policy from time to time to reflect changes in our services, technology, data practices, third-party providers, or applicable legal requirements.

Any updated version will be published on this page with a revised "Last Updated" date.
